News on the Supporter Edition and this month's Free with Order Promo Card:

This past month has been extremely busy with preparing our 2025 TCP Collectosaurus Big Hitz Loot Crate Football product as a way to clear inventory faster at a lower per-item cost while also generating much more scan data that we can use to build our upcoming website. Along the way, we unfortunately had to push back the Expeditions Supporter Edition to mid August. As for this month's card, we're going a different direction than usual. We still had a number of leftovers from the last several printings, and a number of autograph cards left from our first print run. Therefore we decided to go with the month's theme and clear out our remaining older Promo Card inventory. For each purchase this month, we'll be including one of these random Promo Cards from our earlier batches — enjoy!

The Collectosaurus Project News

With the end of our lot sales we are moving to reshape our storefront and change the way we sell singles. With shipping and general doing business costs going up, we've had a look at how we can adapt and thrive in today's economy. As such we've made, or will be making, the following changes to our eBay store:

- We will be moving to either delist or switch to auction the remaining $20 and under singles in our store and will instead move to include those in current or future loot crate products.
- With our focus on boxed products, trading card singles listings will mainly consist of slabbed, oversized, or sealed items. Items that do not sell within a set period will move to a 5 day auction and, if they still do not sell, then be included as a Case Bonus for our Big Hitz Loot Crates.
- We will be launching a new trading card brand to be sold in the store, starting with 2025 TCP Collectosaurus 1902-03 World Series of Football Test Issue. Test Issue packs will be included with Big Hitz crates for free, and will become available for individual purchase in the store soon after that product launches.
- We will be exploring expanding our available inventory to include other classes of collectibles, more on that in future updates...
